UTAH SHEEPMEN MAKE A PROTEST

In possession of voluminous information concerning the wool industry in the intermountain region and its relations with the railroads, Ward Prouty, special examiner for the interstate commerce commission, concluded a four-day hearing on wool rates in the federal court room, in Salt Lake, last night. He left later in the evening for Portland, Ore., where a similar hearing will open next Tuesday morning.

Facts brought out at the Salt Lake hearing will be used as the principal

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea" which our grandmothers used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Don't delay another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

FEATURES OF FOUR-STATE FAIR

This afternoon's program at the Four-State fair will include two flights by Aviator Chas. F. Walsh, music by the Ogden City band and another speed card, with some of the best runners and trotters on the grounds entered.

A special program has been arranged by the fair management for Sunday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock. The Curtiss aviator will make two or more flights and if Coleman and his balloon arrive in time, several ascensions will be made. The trained animal show is also expected to arrive tonight, and the free acts connected with this feature of the fair will also be given tomorrow. The band will give one of its best programs Sunday.

The judging of the sheep was scheduled to take place this morning, but on account of the delay in the arrival of some of the biggest exhibits, this will not take place until early next week.

John Nebeker of Idaho, arrived this morning with 100 head of fine yearling Oxford MacKerrow & Evans, said to be the largest exhibitors of sheep in the country, are expected to arrive with 200 head of Oxford, Southdown, Hampshire and Shropshire today. With the arrival of the MacKerrow & Evans exhibit from the Colorado state fair at Pueblo, the International Sheep Show will be about complete.

The increased number of prizes in the livestock department is bringing out a good exhibit. Numerous entries have already arrived from Nebraska, Wyoming, Wisconsin, Utah and other states.

An attractive display in the main exhibition hall is the floral show, where thousands of flowers have been tastefully arranged by Weber county women. The exhibits in this building represent thousands of dollars and include a showing of practically every good manufactured article turned out in Utah and intermountain states.

One exhibit on the grounds that makes everyone stop and look is the Buckeye gate, by Chas. H. Hunt, of Walla Walla, Wash.

A feature of Monday's fair program will be the big horse parade in the afternoon. All persons desiring to enter this parade for the prizes offered are urged to have their entries in at the secretary's office at the fair grounds not later than Sunday afternoon. Entries in the parade were made this morning by the Jorgensen Transfer company, the Ogden Wholesale Grocery company and Roy Erighbaum, of Orchard, Utah.

AX-GRINDING

A Science With Some Dealers—Done at the Expense of the Public.

There is nothing "just as good" as Newbro's Herpicide. Some dealers will even go so far as to tell you they have something better.

That dealer has an axe to grind. You can't stop his grinding, but you can prevent him grinding it at your expense.

There is one sure, swift way to do it. Go where you can get what you ask for.

You won't be obliged to do this very often, as fortunately the majority of druggists are honest and conscientious.

Newbro's Herpicide has been so long and favorably known as the original dandruff germ destroyer that no one should be deceived.

When you need a hair remedy, you don't want one which merely promises to kill the dandruff germ and prevent the hair from falling.

close with eleven candidates fighting to the last. Miss Grace Kenyon and Miss Leona Palmer requested their names withdrawn from the list today.

Who wins? That's the question that will be decided at 8 o'clock tonight. Everybody in town wants to know who will be queen. Read the Examiner in the morning.

APPLES ARE NOW BEING SHIPPED

J. P. Christensen of Brigham city, one of the directors of the Utah Fruit Exchange, is in Ogden today looking after business interests. He states that the last car of peaches is being shipped from Brigham city today, the crop having been disposed of to advantage. Mr. Christensen says, however, that much fruit is wasted in the orchards and that if one were to go through the peach belt now bushels of peaches could be gathered.

Manager J. M. White of the Exchange says that the peaches all over the country have been marketed and that the next large fruit tonnage to be handled will be the apple crop. Shipments of Jonathan apples already have begun and the prospects are that the crop will be as heavy as in former years and the quality equally as good. A few prunes and plums are being handled by the Exchange but that class of fruit is not very extensive in this section of country. The Exchange is also shipping a good many green tomatoes. Most of this crop, however, is handled by the home canneries. Soon after the work has begun on the apple crop, squash, peppers and pumpkins will be gathered and shipped to the eastern market.

Mr. White says he is still offering a premium on good "packs" of fruit. He considers the packing of fruit one of the great essentials in the marketing of fruit and he hopes to get the orchardists in the notion of giving the matter more attention. He says he is paying $1.10 for the best "packs" of apples, while those buying fruit that is not packed properly are paying only from 75 cents to 90 cents a bushel. The Fruit Exchange does not care to handle much of the fruit that is not properly packed, because it not only commands low prices, but places the fruit of the section where it comes from in bad repute.

The Brigham City district this year has been nearly 100 cars short on its peach crop, but on other fruits the Peach city is making a good showing.

JAP PURSUED HIS WIFE TO OGDEN

Salt Lake, Sept. 23.—Although the fear of death is supposed to be foreign to Japanese nature, it played an important part in a hearing yesterday before Judge G. G. Armstrong in the Third district court. Fukutoku Tomotoko, a veritable Japanese, was on trial yesterday before the court to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt for threatening to end the earthly career of his wife, Timi Tomotoko, from whom he has been separated unwillingly. It appeared for several months.

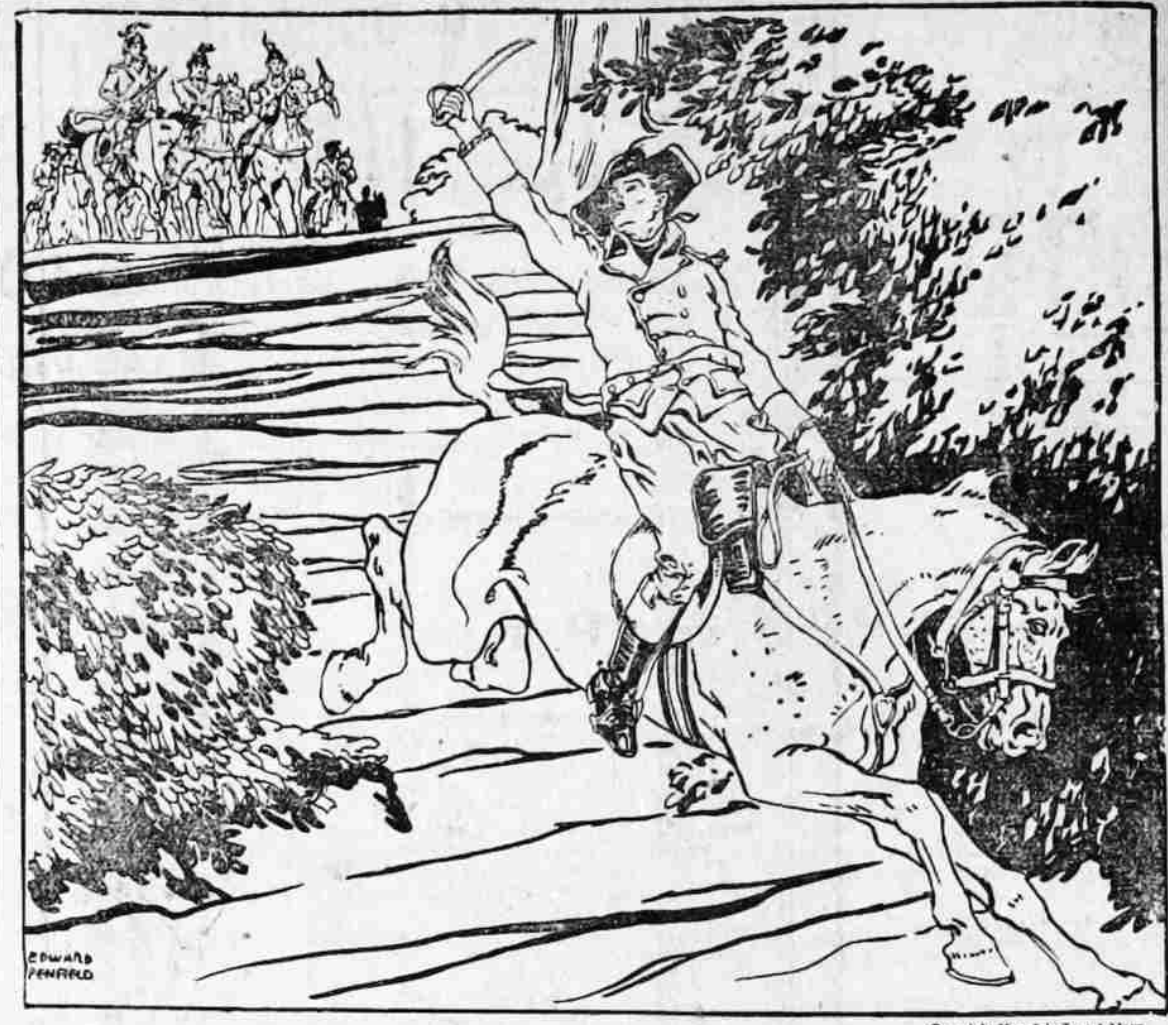

Tomotoko already has one charge of attempted murder hanging over him, in which his little Japanese wife is involved. Last May he was ordered by the district court not to interfere or visit his wife, upon her plea that he was cruel to her.

In July the Japanese husband is alleged to have attempted to kill O. Tomaki, another Jap, whom he accused of winning away from him his wife's affections. Hearing on this charge will be held next week, Tomotoko being out on bonds.

It was charged yesterday by Mrs. Timi that her husband had followed her to Ogden, where she had come to get away from him, and there, despite the order of the district court, had waylaid her in her room and visited her at the restaurant where she worked and repeatedly threatened to kill her, each time emphasizing his threats with a revolver. On one occasion, she said, another Japanese saved her life by disarming her husband just as he was about to shoot her.

Mrs. Tomotoko convinced the court that she was in danger of being killed by her husband, and that, contrary to the usual Japanese custom, she did not want to die at all.

The court sentenced Tomotoko to jail pending the hearing of the felony charge.

LEWIS' TALK ON SOCIAL AFFAIRS

Many of the world's historical idols were wrecked last night in the court house auditorium when Arthur Morrow Lewis, the Socialist lecturer of Chicago, addressed a large audience on the "Secret of History." In explaining the subject of his lecture, Mr. Lewis asserted that the secret of history was that everything in the progress of humanity was due to cause and effect.

Mr. Lewis is one of the most scholarly speakers on the subject of Socialism that has ever addressed an audience in this city. His wide knowledge of history and sociology was made evident by the diversity of his quoted authorities. His style of delivery marked him as a man of unusual platform ability, although he talked more as a teacher than as a political orator.

"When people first began to investigate the things of this world and to write history they were greatly deceived," he said. "They started wrong and it was very natural that they should have started wrong for the most important facts in nature were hidden from them. Things were not as they seemed to be and the early deceptions of mankind still enthrall many of the minds of today."

"For instance the world, to all appearances, was flat. When one sails from New York to Liverpool he seems to be traveling upon a level plain of water and yet the vessel is beating its way over a mountain of sea more than three hundred miles high. The sun to all appearances traveled around the earth and all the stars and planets were mere satellites of the earth. In everything man was deceived by appearances and in the midst of his deception it is no wonder that he saw no law and that he believed that everything in nature was governed by the caprices of phantoms."

But finally man began to see that there was law in the universe and that the same cause always produced the same effect. At first this law, which was called the natural law of the universe, was only extended to a few things.

"As the knowledge of men increased this natural law was extended further into the sciences. The effort to extend it met with the disfavor of the theologians, who used every means within their power to restrict its sway. Finally some of the historians of the world made some weak efforts to apply the natural law of cause and effect to history, to the actions and progress of society."

"Theology said man is a free moral agent and his actions are not governed by any natural laws. A great English historian said that the history of society is governed by the climate and topography of a country and by its soil. This was a good start in the right direction, but it was not enough. It did not explain the changes in society and this reason critics took the theory to pieces."

"It remained for a German Jew, Karl Marx, to establish the natural law to history. Marx said that the actions and destinies of a people are determined by their mode of production, by the way they make their living. Marx shattered the great man theory of history and established in its place the materialistic conception of history or the economic determinism of human actions. No one has ever been able to successfully refute this truth. It placed the science of history beside the other sciences of the world and if Marx had done nothing else it would have placed him among the ranks of the immortals."

In the light of the Marxian theory of history, the speakers explained the cause back of the fall of Rome, the religious crusades, the fall of the Venetian republic, the discovery of America, the reformation, the American revolution and the civil war. The struggle between the capitalists of England and America to see which should have the right to rob the working class of America. He declared that John Hancock, who so boldly inscribed his name upon the declaration of independence, was a smuggler. He concluded his talk by saying would be the overthrow of the capitalist class of the world by the working class and the establishment of an industrial democracy.

BORDEN TO CONFER WITH CONSERVATIVE LEADERS

Halifax, N. B., Sept. 23.—The next premier of Canada, Robert Laird Borden, M. P., left Halifax today for Ottawa. Mr. Borden will stop at Montreal for a conference with Conservative leaders of Quebec province, when it is expected, the subject of Quebec's representation in the cabinet will be considered.

Mr. Borden has not even arranged a tentative cabinet roster. Because of the developments and expansion of the western country, a bill for the redistribution of parliamentary seats, giving Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia greater strength in the house of commons, will be introduced in parliament. Most of the other provinces will also be affected and another general election in 1917 will be necessitated.

ULSTER UNIONISTS AGAINST HOME RULE

Belfast, Ireland, Sept. 23.—Ulster Unionists to the estimated number of 100,000 assembled this afternoon for an anti-home rule demonstration. Special trains brought enormous crowds. There was a big procession through the streets, followed with speeches by Sir Edward H. Carson, member of parliament for Dublin university; Frederick E. Smith, member of parliament from the Walton division of Liverpool and other Unionists.

How Many Men Keep Youthful

(From The Social Register.)
It is well known that with recent years the men have become extensive patrons of beauty specialists and masseurs. Not only the fastidious, but men generally who have a care for personal appearance. This has also led to the employment by many of means calculated to enhance or preserve physical attractiveness, especially by those who abhor "beauty parlors."

Of these, perhaps the most widely used is ordinary mercurized wax—which explains the mystery of the silver-haired gentlemen with the boyish face. The mercurized wax, obtainable at any drugstore, is applied after shaving, the same as cold cream, only not rubbed in. This gradually absorbs the dead and half-dead cuticle in tiny particles, revealing the fresher, healthier skin beneath. To secure best results many apply the wax at night, washing it off in the morning. Women not only encourage husbands in this, but use the treatment themselves.
